IN HONOR OF THE CHILDREN'S DAY

Elements That Made the Rare Scene Enjoyable to Fully 5,000.

ADDRESSES ADDING LIFE'S LESSONS

There was a great and jubilant multitude of children at Valley Camp yesterday. It was their anniversary, and no day is more appreciated among the little folk; and that could be clearly seen by the enthusiastic manner in which they participated in all exercises. The air was rent with song and laughter. No matter what portion of the services the little ones were engaged in, they adapted themselves to it. At the religious meetings the children were reverent and attentive; but, at the display of their dolls in the afternoon, words would fail to depict the delights of those "little mothers."

The morning opened dull and forbidding. At intervals ominous clouds flitted by, and rain fell spasmodically; but before the day (or the real day to the children) opened, Old Sol peeped out from behind a black cloud and beamed and blinked away, merrily, to the intense delight of the children. The cottagers profusely decorated their cottages with bunting, and the camp had all the appearance of a gala day.

Before the arrival of the trains appointed to bring in the visitors from points north and south, Will Price and J. H. Nobbs arranged the children in line, and, accompanied by Cruikshank's orchestra, they started for the depot.

A SCENE FOR PASSENGERS. When the Buffalo express drew into the station and the visitors began to alight,1,000 sweet little voices burst out into rapturous song; and certainly "Hold the Fort" could not be heard to better advantage. The Scene was inspiring.

When the service opened in the auditorium, fully 5,000 people were there, and, as they rose en masse to sing a favorite hymn ("We Are a Little Pilgrim Band"), it was a sight worthy to be remembered. When Dr. Davidson called the children to prayer, n solemn and reverential stillness pervaded the whole building; nothing but the prayer of the supplicant could be heard.

At 11:30 A. M. W. L. Davidson, D. D., who is in charge of the Methodist Sunday School work, gave an address. He was lis tened to with rapt attention, for his earnest and forcible manner attracted the children; and, as he drew simple pictures of nature and told how all might be drawn into more intimate relationship with God, every heart was touched with the divine chord.

Lewis Miller, of Akron, O., well-known as a great agricultural implement manufac-turer, but better and more widely known as the President of the Chautauqua Sunday School Assembly, spoke next. His genial countenance, radiating smiles, made every-body happy. He urged the children to be obedient and watchful in all they did, and then they would grow up strong and in the knowledge of goodness. After this Mrs. J. E. Porter rendered a beautiful solo, and then the children sang a hymn and the morning exercises closed.

THEIR JOYS CONCENTRATED.

The event of the day, to the children, found the great auditorium filled at 2:30 P. M. ith a multitude to listen to the perform nees of artists drawn from the children's own ranks. The opening piece was "Welcome;" then Miss Blanche Baily "Proclaimed the Mission Cause;" Miss E-sic Swea very prettily rendered a solo, "Tiny Hands," after which Miss Mamie Reuck gave one of her excellent performances on the violin. Then the Valley Camp Band went through a calisthenic exercise; 14 little girls afterward gave a dialogue, and the programme was closed by Miss Myrtle Price singing "Goodbye." Heien Thompson, the soloist, sat on the platform, amid the bevy of children, with their dolls all tastefully attired. The chorus was composed of 18 little girls. J. H. Nabbs, known by every Pittsburg. H. Nobbs, known by every Pittsburg Methodist, sat among them, with his little grandchild on his knee.

There was, a little later, a hoop drill, and it was exceedingly pretty. The girls takes Florence Runnette, Carrie Bushfield, Mary Thompson, Emma Hale, Clara Thompson, Pearl Tinker, Ida Flaccus, Lida Bushfield, Annie Stewart, Mary Brobst and Bessie Crock.

Dr. O. L. Miller, of Allegheny, gave a very interesting stereoptican entertainment in the evening, when an immense crowd thronged the spacious hall, and all were full of enthusiasm. At the close they gen-erally and warmly thanked Dr. Miller for making the end of this memorable day so setter From the Deputy Collector at Mond Yesterday afternoon U. S. Internal Revenue Collector Warmcastle received a letter from Deputy Collector Williamson, of Meadville, relative to the shrinkage whisky that had been lying in bond at Meadville. It cannot be clearly ascertained whether there was an excessive loss, because the length of storage is not absolutely known. The following letter is from the deputy collector: Sin-Your letter of the 29th inst. inclosing clipping in regard to "too much" shrinkare of distilled spirits in the warehouse of Crawford & Co. is received. I would state, in reply, that I have examined the books of the Meadville Distillery Gauging Company, Limited, No. 26, and can find but one druggist in this vicinity who has made any recent withdrawol from the said warehouse. The druggist Cyrus Kitchen, residing in this city, but engaged in business in Evansburg, Conneaut Lake, withdrew on June 7, 1886, two packages, Nos. 1388 and 1,389, containing originally 43 and 44 gallons. At the time of withdrawal they contained 39 gallons each, showing a loss on the package of 9 gallons. The allowance being 6% gallons on each barrel for 27 months, you will observe that this loss is excessive.

THAT WHISKY SHRINKAGE.

As regards the natural excitement and curiosity of the distiller, I can only state that the first intimation he had of it was when I read the same notice to him in THE DISPATCH on Sunday afternoon, and he, of course, could not understand it.

STILL RAKING THE RUINS

Of the Defunct F. & M. Bank, and Fluding Little of Value.

The sale of the Independent Glass Hous and adjacent property by assignees of the F. & M. Bank took place yesterday morning. Mr. Wigman, lumber merchant, bought the glass house for $9,200, and Alderman Succep, of the Southside, bought the lot the office stood upon for $940. With regard to the purchase of an adjoining lot, to build thereon a $60,000 Polish church, THE DISPATCH has before published particulars fully.

The remaining property of the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank in the hands of the trustees consists of about 14 acres of coal lands, situate on the line of the Chartiers lands, situate on the line of the Chartiers Valley Railroad, a short distance above Mansheld. Assignee Sorg said yesterday that the assignees would sell this tract for $2,000, and that as soon as they received an offer for it. There are also eight lots on the hilliside at the head of South Eighteenth street, above Pius street, and 15 lots at the head of South Twenty-sixth street, in the Twenty-seventh ward, yet to be sold.

The assignees of the bank have now about $91,000 in cash in their hands, and this will, within a month be distributed in apporwithin a month, be distributed in appo-

A Colored Driver in Limbo on Suspicion of Stenling New Shoes. Thomas, colored, employed as driver for A. I. Scott & Co., 110 Market street, was jailed yesterday on a charge preferred by J. McD. Scott, of the firm, alleging that the colored man had secreted, stolen and sold a quantity of shoes consigned to him by the firm for delivery to customers. Traps were laid for him, and in a measure corroborated the suspicions.

The firm also received word that a number of colored people had received shoes from Thomas, among them William John-son, Albert Green, John Sharper, Mrs. Banks and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Williams. Informations were made against these for receiving stolen goods.

It was not only stated that several more arrests of Scott's purchasers are contem-plated, but that, when he was trapped, he admitted to his employer that he had stolen three pairs of shoes found among the other-wise empty boxes he had been led unwittingly to load up.

MOUNT WASHINGTON.

Nestling Cloudward, it has Made Great Strides Recently.

ITS EXTENSIVE STREET PAVING

and Much House Building, All in a Modest and Quiet Way.

ITS TREMENDOUS VOTING CAPACITY

Mt. Washington, Thirty-second ward, has been quietly looming up of late years all by itself, and very few people, aside from those who live there, know it. In fact, it is doubtful whether the average resident of the city knows as much of the place as do visitors, who ride up the inclined planes as a novelty, and are astonished to find a little city, so bright and new that it shines like a gem in the tiara of the city. It has been said that a city set on a hill cannot be hid. but Mt. Washington has managed to be very nearly hidden, illustrating the declaration in the Book of Mormon, "Blessed is he that bloweth his own horn, for he shall be blowed." Mt. Washington hasn't been blowing its own horn very much lately, has not even held an indignation meeting for several years, and while the East End has been the cynosure of most eyes on purchase bent, Mt. Washington has been in a measure

DATING FROM AWAY BACK. It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that a portion of Mt. Washington was laid out in 1784, 105 years ago. It was included in the Manor of Pittsburg, and High street, now Grandview avenue, was a street over 100 years ago. The lots fronted on the river. They were quite ample lots, four rods wide and running from the river to the top of the hill, some 700 feet, each lot containing over an acre of Over 100 years ago Abraham Kirkpatrick, grandfather of K. Q. Bigham, Esq., built a log house at the corner of what is now Grandview avenue and Kearsage street. He also built another farther back, which is still standing, and a barn on the site now occupied by Mr. Charles H. Humbert. The occupied by Mr. Charles H. Humbert. The first named house was torn down within the last three years, and of the second house the logs are hidden by quite modern wentherboarding. Mr. Kirkpatrick being an officer of the General Government, and consequently antagonistic to the men who fought the Whisky Rebellion, found it rough sledding during that war, and the insurrectionists burned his barn.

A VILLAGE IN 1820. The oldest settlement that approached in appearance a village was near where the house of John Wilbert, deceased, stands. Peter Cool, Thomas Jones and some others built log houses there in 1820. The first of the Large family to come to this section had the Large family to come to this section had built a distillery on the back part of the hill, but in 1820 the distillery was regarded as a thing of antiquity, and even its site had been forgotten by most people.

Steam and modern science have made Mt. Washington. Had it not been for her inclined planes she would to this day have remained a straggling village, but the plane is not so late an idea as some suppose. About 1850 the late T. J. Bigham and a man named Leslie laid out a plan of lots on man named Leslie laid out a plan of lots on the heights and Leslie, whose talent lay in the engineering line, began the construction of an inclined plane much similar to the one now in operation The road up the hill originally ran from where Thomas Neely's stable now stands at a grade so steep that is ascending a line dropped from the lead horse's ears would strike the tailboard of the wagon, and it was difficult even to get groceries on the Mount. Some excavating done for Mr. Leslie's plane and a ca was bought, but it never carried any pass engers. Not long since it was doing duty as a summer house in the yard of the late C. B. M. Smith, Esq.

Instead of an inclined plane Bigham & Leslie and others finally contented ther selves by building a line of steps to the brow of the hill. These steps were in use down almost to the time of the building of the Monongabela Incline Plane, and were considered a great labor saving institution HUMBERT'S IDEA ANCIENT ALSO. It is also stated that Mr. Humbert's ides of a car hung on wires to transport people from the foot of Market street to the top of Mt. Washington, to the place where the Harper mansion stands, was conceived by a Yankee named Daniel Touse in 1850.

In 1868 Mr. Peter Soffel was one of the Board of School Directors, and he says the number of children enrolled was about 175. In 1871 the schoolhouse at the corner of Sycamore and Stanwix streets became too Sycamore and Stanwix streets became too small, and a new one was proposed. The proposition caused a bitter fight, and the opponents of the project said the building proposed would not be filled during the life proposed would not be filled during the life of the generation. Since that time an addi-tion nearly as large as the building itself has been built, and now it is necessary to erect still another building. Now a princi-pal and 21 teachers are kept busy taking care of an enrollment of nearly 1,500 pupils and but half the life of a generation ha passed since the old frame house became too small. small.

Just here a state of facts crops out which no one on the Mount seems able to explain.
There are about as many voters as children, and yet the ward is not noted for old bachelors. Were the recognized proportions given by statisticians maintained, the sdult make and females ought not to and nales and females ought not to equal, leaving out children too young to go to school, more than one-half of the residue of the population, which would give nearly 3,000 school pupils. Dr. J. E. Wilson and J. C. McCormick are supposed to know about how many children have been born on the Mount during the last 20 years, and they are unable to explain the discrepancy except on the ground that some voters

VOTE EARLY AND OFTEN, or a large proportion of the children do not go to school. The population of the ward is about 7,000. The additional school building now being erected will cost $17,000. now being erected will cost $17,000.

Up to a very recent date the conservatives of the Mount have been able to fight off street improvements, but the moderns have at last succeeded in setting the ball rolling. Miles of streets are being graded and paved, and some heavy cuts are being made that will cost a vast amount of money, but when the work is finished it will be of vast use, as by the inclined freight plane wagons carry-ing four tons are lifted to the summit in one minute, whereas a few years ago a half a ton was a large load for two horses to pull up the wagon road.

The character of the houses built of late years is much superior to those formerly built. So far 52 have been erected this year and the ring of the bricklayer's trowel and sound of the carpenter's saw can be heard in

Some of these houses cost $5,000 and upward, among them that of Dr. King. Mr. Joseph Lewis is also building a fine house. All this is the result of the building of inclined planes, by means of which people can live in an atmosphere equal to that of the open country, and yet reach the business part of the city in 15 minutes. The great bulk of the population makes its fiving in the downtown part of the city, and only a few shoe, grocery and drugstore proprietors make their money on the hill.

Lovers of the beautiful regret that there has not been sufficient asthetic taste to preserve the earthwork known as Fort Mechanic, which was thrown up during the dark days of the Civil War, when John Morgan and a host of wild-eyed rebels were supposed to be preparing to attack Pittsburg and rob its banks. Ex-Councilman Minsinger has ground the earthwork and had it molded into bricks. Before the hill became thickly settled it was a great re-THOROUGHLY SUBSTANTIAL.
